Weekly status:
This week we met with Professor Tewksbury to discuss our project. We found out that this project is very doable in VHDL and that is what we are going to use to complete this project. We started doing some research on different methods of performing the encryption and where in the flow this device will be placed. At the current time we are planning to implement the device such that it will catch any interrupts that signal a read/write on the hard drive and it will perform its encryption or decryption.
